Dear Mr Fadel,

I am very pleased to confirm that the OECD supports your Center's work to develop training and assessment materials for modern Mathematics.

The assessment materials, in particular, could make explicit future developments of PISA. As you know, PISA's future success will closely depend on our ability to rethink "what students learn for the 21st century", in light of changing competency requirements, rapid technological changes and progress in pedagogical research.

Your offer to deliver a full suite of revised Maths standards, six courses for professional development for teachers, and 63 test items is most welcome. It negates the investment concerns of jurisdictions during these difficult times of COVID, and cuts down on the ramp-up time for adoption and propagation.

You can count on my continued support for this work.

Yours sincerely,

Andreas Schleicher
